Saki: Yesterday, I saw you at the hamburger shop.

Bob: Yes, I was there. I wanted to eat a big hamburger, so I had lunch with my mother.

Saki: Oh? I saw you in the evening.

Bob: Yes, that was me. I ate some hamburgers for dinner with my father. I love eating hamburgers!

Saki: I think you need to eat some vegetables!

Question: What did Bob eat last evening?

(2)

Bob: Good morning, Saki. What did you do yesterday?

Saki: I went to Tokyo to see my aunt.

Bob: Really? Does your aunt live in Tokyo?

Saki: Yes, she does. She is a nurse. I want to be a nurse in the future, too.

Bob: Great! I want to be a doctor, so I study very hard.

Saki: That's nice.

Question: What do they want to be in the future?

(3)

Saki: Hi, Bob. What are you looking for?

Bob: I'm looking for a DVD to watch this evening. I love watching movies.

Saki: Me too. But wait, Bob. You have a lot of homework to do. Did you forget?

Bob: Oh, I forgot. I have to do my math and science homework.

Saki: You should do your homework this evening.

Bob: You're right. I'll do that.

Question: What will Bob do this evening?

Mina: Hey, Bob. It's Friday today. Saki and I are going to watch your tennis match tomorrow.

Bob: Hi, Mina. Look outside. It started to rain five minutes ago. I was going to practice tennis with my friends after school.

Saki: The TV weather report said it will rain tomorrow, too.

Bob: Really, Saki? Then, I think we will not have the match tomorrow.

Saki: I'm sorry to hear that. But it will be sunny the day after tomorrow.

Bob: I see. Then shall we go to the zoo the day after tomorrow?

Saki: Good idea!

Mina: That sounds great. I hope it will not rain on Sunday.

Question: What will the weather be on Sunday?
